

Bangle sizes

Séamus Gill bangles are normally made a medium size which is 200mm (just under 8 inches) inside circumference.

Because they are made by hand they can be made larger or smaller to fit.

To get an approximate idea of your size, print out this A4 page at 100% on your printer. Use a ruler to check that it printed out the correct size.

Cut out the pattern and join the ends together with tape. The size that fits tightly over your hand at the widest point (usually between the end joint on your thumb and the end joint on your little finger) will be the correct size.
